Pivigo is seeking a

Data Science Consultant

with start date immediately.

Introduction

Pivigo is a fast expanding, VC-backed start-up in the London data science and AI scene. Pivigo was named one of the Top Five Fast-growing Companies to Watch in 2017 by Forbes, and we work with a wide range of companies, from FTSE100 corporates to the freshest start-ups, on solving any and all people-related problems they may have within Big Data. In 2014 we started Europe's largest data science bootcamp (S2DS, www.s2ds.org) and in 2017 we launched the data science marketplace, a unique opportunity to connect data scientists with businesses.

Help us build one of the most exciting data science start-ups in Europe!

Responsibilities

- Attend sales meetings with the sales team to provide technical input in a consultative sales process
- Meet with prospective clients to brainstorm and propose projects
- Support clients in project set-up, advice on technologies and data sharing
- Support and mentor our S2DS teams
- Perform some internal data science research projects, including supporting our CTO in developing a data science marketplace that is exciting and useful to the data science community
- Some outreach towards the wider data science community

What we look for

- At least one year of experience in a commercial data science role, ideally in a consultative role
- An analytical degree (MSc or PhD)
- Proven analytical skills, including machine-learning
- Strong programming skills in Python, R and SQL required, additional languages advantageous
- Good understanding of database solutions and options
- Excellent communication skills in writing and speaking
